If you have a training need very specific to your site, or maybe you would like to work with your fire apparatus at your plant. We can come to your facility and conduct training right there at your home. Industrial fire, HazMat mitigation, Technical Rope Rescue, First Responder, or Incident Command. We can put together a custom training session on your plant site that will be comprehensive and safe.

GCERA has traveled to many parts of the world providing both ProBoard and non-ProBoard classes. From the far West coast to the Far Middle East our instructors can bring their knowledge and training props to you. Our instructors come complete with full safety PPE and the directive to follow all of your plant's safety procedures to the letter.

Many of our certification courses can be broken down into segments. Which means some of the more basic classroom training can be conducted at your facility while the practical hands-on training takes place at our academy. Saving you, as our customer, time and money.
